

Python without virtual environments is like sharing a workshop that can only have one kind of tool.

A virtual environment is like your personal work area where you can use the tools you need.

